CROSBY S. NOYES Editor. The Evening Star has a regular, perma-nent, bona fide daily circulation more than double that of any other daily paper published in Washington, and equal to that of all the other daily papers here added to-cetner.

Subscriptions will be received and duly accounted to the New York Herald Irish Famine Fund at the office of THE STAR. A list, with name of contributor, former residence in Ireland, present residence, and amount of subscription, is now open.

The Cincinnati Enquirer says it is nonsense to talk of nominating Bayard for the presidency, because the "western democrats will never touch him." The men who advocate the nomination of Mr. Bayard by the democratic convention agree with the Eupuirer that he is not strong in the west, but his weakness in that section is the main cause of his strength in the east. Bayard is not popular with western democrats because of the financial stand he has taken, but it is this, more than anything else, that makes him strong in the east. The Eaquirer will have to produce some better argument than is here quoted to affect the Bayard boom. His friends argue that it is absurd to take the west into the calculation at all, because, outside of Indiana, there is not the least chance of the party carrying any western state. They maintain that the democracy of Indiana cannot set its wishes and theories up in opposition to those of the other democratic states and of the democracy of states that may be carried for the ticket. The indications are that the influence of the eastern democracy will be exerted with as much effect upon the coming convention as in those of the past in spite of protest and growls from the western democrats.

A very prominent democrat, and one whose high position in the party organization gives extra weight to his words, said recently: "When the western democrats can give any assurance of helping us with some electoral votes, they will be entitled to a voice in making up the ticket. As it is, they are hopelessly in the mi-nority, except in Indiana, and the democrats of that state will support the ticket whether they like it or not." Taking the democratic sentiment as to the composition of a ticket, as it is represented in Congress, and it is plain that it largely favors the selection of an eastern man for the presidential nominee. This sentiment is divided between Tilden, Seymour, Bayard, Han-cock, McClellan and several others, but none of the Congressmen who now favor these gentlemen mention any western men as their second

The friends of General Fitz John Porter have labored earnestly to prevent any question of politics from becoming mixed up with the bill to restore him to the army; but it looks now as if such efforts are to result in failure. Senator Logan's minority report from the Senate military committee maintains the justice of the verdict of the court-martial which dismissed Porter from the army, and argues that it would be a reflection upon the honor and integrity of the officers who composed that court to reverse what they did. It is stated, upon good authority, too, that General Garfield, who was a member of the court-martial, will deliver in the House a speech defending its course and verdict and assailing Porter. The latter's friends cannot reply to Logan's report or to Garfield's speech without attacking the court-martial, and this will open up one of the most bitter partisan discussions that has been heard in Congress for a long time. A Senator who is a warm friend o General Porter remarked, only a few days ago. that he was anxious to avoid all discussion, be cause "if we are forced into one," said he, "it will be so bitter."

The plan of choosing presidential electors by congressional districts was in force in New York up to 1829, when it was abolished and that now in general use was adopted. In the presidential contest of 1828 the power of the state was destroyed by the district plan of election, and that led to its abolishment. In that year the state had 34 members of the House of Representatives, and was entitled to cast 35 electoral votes. Of these Jackson got 18 by congressional districts and the 2 at large, making 20, while Adams got the other 16. This reduced the actual power of the state in choosing a President to four electoral votes, which were offset by the little state of Rhode Island casting her four votes for Adams, This argument is being used against the bill now pending in the legislature to restore the district system of choosing electors. It is admitted that the democrats will carry at least 13 of the districts, and perhaps i5. This would leave the remaining 22 or 20, of course, to the republicans, and reduce the positive power of the state in electing a President to 7 or 9 votes, which could be neutralized by one of the smaller states of the

What is called the higher circles of society in New York must be queerly constituted. Not long ago we were regaled with an account of a supper party at a well known restaurant, and attended by wealthy and prominent people. which gradually drifted into a drunken carousal, and finally wound up in the station house, where one of the lady guests charged the gentleman seated by her with stealing some jewelry from her belt satchel. That was bad enough, but worse remains. It is now reported on the best authority that at a swell dinner recently given "at the residence of a family well known in the wealthlest and most fashionable circles, in one of the uptown side streets, near Fifth avenue," an emerald and diamond ring worth $8,000, which was taken from her flager by the hostess to show to one of the guests started on a tour of inspection around the table and never again reached its owner's hands. A little more of this sort of thing, and it will be an honorable distinction to belong to one of the second families of that city of snobs.

The Albany Evening Times has information from a prominent democrat of New York city. "who is and always has been friendly to Mr. Tilden," that the latter "is and will be physically incapacitated to be a candidate for the presidency at the coming election." The publication of this letter may be a device of the anti-Tilden democrats, but there is an apparent willingness to credit it in the public mind. It is likely, however, that the wily Tilden will destroy the whole effect of this letter by having some "Frominent democrat" describe in an interview son. wonderful physical feat lately performed by the "old man." Last summer all the rumors of Tilde 's "physical decay" were hushed by the asser on of a Congressman that the ex-governor skip and up the stairs at Greystone two steps at a tile, and was not blown the least bit.

The proposition to reduce the duty on steel rails has divided the ways and means committee on party lines, the democrats favoring and the republicans opposing it. The result will probably be a majority report, signed by the democrats, recommending a new tariff of $14 a ton, and a minerity report by the republicans in favor of maintaining the present tariff of $28 per ton. The division in the House on the question will not be entirely upon party lines, though nearly all the democrats will favor a reduced tariff, and nearly all the republicans will oppose it. There will be enough western republicans to vote for a reduction to offset the Pennsylvania democrats who will vote against it, and the House will be pretty evenly divided on the

A bill has been introduced in the California legislature, to amend the penal code relative to "pleadings and proceeding after indictment." The object of the bill is to so change the law as to afford De Young a loop-hole through which to escape the penalty of his assault upon Kulloch. The bill is framed in general terms, but ts purpose has been detected and exposed. There are slight surface indications that ex-Senator and ex-Secretary Harlan, of Iowa, may come to the front in political affairs again. He is spoken of as a probable candidate for the governorship of his state in certain contingen-
